

Compound Sentences

- A compound sentence is a sentence made up of two or more sentences that have related ideas.
- The joining words and or but can be used to connect the two sentences in a compound sentence.
- A comma separates the two sentences in a compound sentence. The comma is placed before the joining word.

The Titanic was once the largest ship in the world, but it sank on its first voyage in 1912.

Two thousand people were aboard the ship, and many died when it went down.

1. The captain of the search ship looked at the video screen, but it was empty.

---

---

2. A rescue ship found lifeboats at one spot, and the captain searched there.

---

---

3. He dragged a sled along the ocean bottom, and it carried a video camera.

---

---

4. The crew saw only mud, but the captain did not give up hope.

---

---

5. In August, 1985, a crewman looked at the screen, and an object came into view.

---

---

Compound Sentences

- A compound sentence is a sentence made up of two or more sentences that have related ideas.
- The joining words and or but can be used to connect the two sentences in a compound sentence.
- A comma separates the two sentences in a compound sentence. The comma is placed before the joining word.

The Titanic was once the largest ship in the world, but it sank on its first voyage in 1912.

Two thousand people were aboard the ship, and many died when it went down.

1. The captain of the search ship looked at the video screen, but it was empty.

The captain of the search ship looked at the video screen. It was empty. (but)

2. A rescue ship found lifeboats at one spot, and the captain searched there.

A rescue ship found lifeboats at one spot. The captain searched there. (and)

3. He dragged a sled along the ocean bottom, and it carried a video camera.

He dragged a sled along the ocean bottom. It carried a video camera. (and)

4. The crew saw only mud, but the captain did not give up hope.

The crew saw only mud. The captain did not give up hope. (but)

5. In August, 1985, a crewman looked at the screen, and an object came into view.

In August, 1985 a crewman looked at the screen. An object came into view.

(and)