

Keeping Verbs in the Same Tense

The hawk soared high above the lake. Then it pauses on a tree branch. After that, the hawk swoops toward the earth.

The hawk soared high above the lake. Then it paused on a tree branch. After that, the hawk swooped toward the earth.

The shark swims soundlessly and watched for movement in the water. It will search for food. It spotted a fish and strikes!

We will bring marshmallows on our camping trip and toasted them over the campfire. Then we eat them with graham crackers and chocolate squares.

Keeping Verbs in the Same Tense

The hawk soared high above the lake. Then it pauses on a tree branch. After that, the hawk swoops toward the earth.

The hawk soared high above the lake. Then it paused on a tree branch. After that, the hawk swooped toward the earth.

The shark swims soundlessly and watched for movement in the water. It will search for food. It spotted a fish and strikes!

The shark swims soundlessly and watches for movement in the water.

It searches for food. It spots a fish and strikes!

We will bring marshmallows on our camping trip and toasted them over the campfire. Then we eat them with graham crackers and chocolate squares.

We will bring marshmallows on our camping trip and will toast them over the campfire. Then we will eat them with graham crackers and chocolate squares.