Wanted: Rebel Spies, Enemies of Britain

£500 Reward

His Majesty King George III calls upon his loyal subjects in these rebellious times.

Rebel spies have used their secret contacts in the British Army to steal key documents from General Gage. The General has steeled himself for a major setback. The British army is now in peril in this region. You must help save the King's army.

We believe that the rebels have encoded the documents to make them more difficult to read. If you come upon this material or any other helpful information, please bring it to the nearest British outpost immediately. Although this is an urgent situation, travel in a casual manner so the rebels will not suspect you.
