

Volcano Words

The floor began to pitch and shake under Lana's feet. It moved up and down.

"The ground is shaking!" she yelled. "Are we having an earthquake?"

"No," Lana's father said. "Mount San is erupting. You can see the clouds of gas and ashes bursting out of the mountain and flying up into the night sky." The two stared at the amazing sight.

"Well, scientists have been warning us that the volcano was ready to start erupting," noted Lana. "Look at the bright orange glow. Is that hot lava flowing out of the volcano and down its sides?"

"Yes it is," Dad replied. "The ashes and lava will completely destroy everything near the volcano. That would be a real disaster if anyone lived nearby. Luckily, no one does!"

Volcano Words

The floor began to pitch and shake under Lana's feet. It moved up and down.

"The ground is shaking!" she yelled. "Are we having an earthquake?"

"No," Lana's father said. "Mount San is erupting. You can see the clouds of gas and ashes bursting out of the mountain and flying up into the night sky." The two stared at the amazing sight.

"Well, scientists have been warning us that the volcano was ready to start erupting," noted Lana. "Look at the bright orange glow. Is that hot lava flowing out of the volcano and down its sides?"

"Yes it is," Dad replied. "The ashes and lava will completely destroy everything near the volcano. That would be a real disaster if anyone lived nearby. Luckily, no one does!"