

Competition Words

Dear Ms. Kwan,

I was in the audience at your last competition. I thought your presentation was breathtaking! If I had been one of the judges, I would have given you the highest score possible for artistic interpretation. You moved so beautifully and interpreted the music with such elegance. You also deserved top scores for technical merit, since your jumps were flawless and your spins were the best I have ever seen. Even though you must have been under extreme pressure, you skated as if you felt calm and happy.

I am not an expert, but it seems to me that you performed all of the required elements, so I do not understand why some of the judges failed to give you perfect scores. However, you accepted the second-place medal and congratulated the winner with grace. Sometimes it must be heartbreaking to compete in world-class competitions.

I wish you the best of luck in all future competitions. I also hope that when you are no longer an amateur and have become a professional skater, you will appear in many ice shows and exhibitions. I hope to have the pleasure of watching your beautiful skating for many years to come.

Sincerely,
Helen Horii

Competition Words

Dear Ms. Kwan,

I was in the audience at your last competition. I thought your presentation was breathtaking! If I had been one of the judges, I would have given you the highest score possible for artistic interpretation. You moved so beautifully and interpreted the music with such elegance. You also deserved top scores for technical merit, since your jumps were flawless and your spins were the best I have ever seen. Even though you must have been under extreme pressure, you skated as if you felt calm and happy.

I am not an expert, but it seems to me that you performed all of the required elements, so I do not understand why some of the judges failed to give you perfect scores. However, you accepted the second-place medal and congratulated the winner with grace. Sometimes it must be heartbreaking to compete in world-class competitions.

I wish you the best of luck in all future competitions. I also hope that when you are no longer an amateur and have become a professional skater, you will appear in many ice shows and exhibitions. I hope to have the pleasure of watching your beautiful skating for many years to come.

Sincerely,
Helen Horii