

Voyage Words

The hunters had never seen such a huge whale. They stared at it in awe. When the whale was close enough, the hunters threw their harpoons at it. One of the spears pierced the whale's thick skin. The whale lashed its tail violently, and the water around it began roiling. Smashing its tail against the boat, the whale made a small crack in the hull.

Afraid that the damaged boat might sink, the hunters sailed to the nearest island. There they fixed the boat to make it seaworthy again. On the island, the sailors found fresh water. They filled their calabashes with it so that they would have plenty to drink on the trip home.

Voyage Words

The hunters had never seen such a huge whale. They stared at it in awe. When the whale was close enough, the hunters threw their harpoons at it. One of the spears pierced the whale's thick skin. The whale lashed its tail violently, and the water around it began roiling. Smashing its tail against the boat, the whale made a small crack in the hull.

Afraid that the damaged boat might sink, the hunters sailed to the nearest island. There they fixed the boat to make it seaworthy again. On the island, the sailors found fresh water. They filled their calabashes with it so that they would have plenty to drink on the trip home.