1. How do the brothers' feelings about Manu change during the story?

The brothers' feelings about Manu change during the story. At the beginning, they think he is too young to help. At the end, they accept him as part of their team. When Manu offers to go to the island, his brothers laugh at him. They think he might be afraid of storms, washed overboard, or blown away by the wind. Later, when the boat is blown off course, Manu spots a bird that no one else can see. He follows the bird and leads the canoe to the island, and the brothers joyfully lift Manu onto their shoulders.

Write an answer to this question on a separate paper. Use the chart you made for Step 2.

2. Connecting/Comparing How is Manu's trip different from Yunmi's trip in Yunmi and Halmoni's Trip?

2. Connecting/Comparing How is Manu's trip different from Yunmi's trip in Yunmi and Halmoni's Trip?

Sample answer: Manu's trip is different from Yunmi's trip. The story of The Island-below-the-Star is about five brothers who love adventures. They decide to visit the island beneath the star to have a great adventure. They will travel farther than anyone else has ever gone. In Yunmi and Halmoni's Trip Yunmi lives in New York and has never met many of her relatives who live in Korea. She goes with her grandmother to meet her aunts, uncles, and cousins for the first time. She doesn't take her trip just to have an adventure.
