

Nouns That Change Spelling in the Plural

1. Jamaica saw three (child, children) near the subway station.
2. A (man, men) and two (woman, women) stood in line.
3. A (child, children) gave a dollar to the woman in the booth.
4. One (man, men) read a book while he rode the subway.
5. Two (woman, women) talked about a movie.
6. One (child, children) carried her school books.
7. Two (child, children) played with a toy.
8. Three (man, men) got off at the first stop.
9. Two (woman, women) got off at Main Street.
10. One (woman, women) rode to the end of the line.

Nouns That Change Spelling in the Plural

1. Jamaica saw three (child, children) near the subway station.
2. A (man, men) and two (woman, women) stood in line.
3. A (child, children) gave a dollar to the woman in the booth.
4. One (man, men) read a book while he rode the subway.
5. Two (woman, women) talked about a movie.
6. One (child, children) carried her school books.
7. Two (child, children) played with a toy.
8. Three (man, men) got off at the first stop.
9. Two (woman, women) got off at Main Street.
10. One (woman, women) rode to the end of the line.